

Brentano Celebrates with End-of-Summer Jubilee Marquee pattern headlines the textile line's 25th anniversary collection

08.01.2015

Summer may be winding down, but for Brentano, the celebration's just begun. On August 1, the textile house marks its 25th anniversary with the release of the fall Jubilee collection. At once a reflection on Brentano's past, a milestone and a celebration, the 20 new textile patterns combine cool, contemporary styling and techniques with a beautiful, personal warmth and touch.

"After 25 years, we're still exploring new horizons and pushing ourselves aesthetically and technically. With Jubilee, you'll see lots of accent colors — the hot pinks of Catai and Celebration, for example — and new, intricate geometries like Equinox. Even textures like Dashing are new for us. We wouldn't have designed patterns that bold five years ago — much less ten years ago or more," reflected Brentano Design Director Iris Wang.

As a headliner for the Jubilee collection, Marquee reads loud and clear with its vibrant coloring and dramatic, Greek-key inspired geometry. As compelling up close as from a distance, the 52" upholstery fabric weaves two thick, alternating colors of rayon yarns on a cotton warp for a beautifully natural hand. The stitch-like tapestry texture passes 50,000 double rubs (Wyzenbeek, Cotton Duck) with a Teflon finish for hotel and commercial projects.
